

Important Conversations Between Adult Children and Their Parents

Monday, November 6
7:00 p.m.

As parents age, families must work together to tackle big questions. Helping a senior decide if and when to move, whether they should stop driving, or how to tackle a medical issue requires tough conversations for the entire family. Cindy Gordon, a University of North Texas Communications Professor, will show participants how to communicate as a family to tackle these big issues. Adult children and their parents are encouraged to attend together.
